

Om Shanti!

Om Shanti to everyone in Avyakti Parivar. It is so lovely to see all of you. It seems like we all are taking a lot of benefit from understanding the power of silence, and observing silence for a few minutes so many times during the day. Through understanding comes being in that stage, so we can use it. Avyakt BapDada just now told us so many excellent benefits of the Power of Silence. This means that when I am in silence, I can see the solutions to problems, I can change negative into positive, so there is no excuse for anything. How much power of silence do I have? I find that even if something externally looks very strong, it will bring some clarity, some understanding. If I am in silence, I see the benefit and I can let go of the situation. If I hold onto the situation, I am not using the power of silence. Sometimes it happens that even in our minds, something is not right, but then suddenly something very important gets clarified, like the bad smell of fertilizer, but look what it produces.

When you look at everything in nature, from ugly, how beautiful things emerge! Look at all the different kinds of flowers and fruits. Nature has the quality to bring everything beautiful, fragrant, with nutrition also. It is amazing when you think that even nature has the quality of silence, look what it produces! Different colors! Someone was saying that who has created colors? They have taken from nature, no! What is green, what is red, what is, which one is violet, mixed colors! If you look at vegetables they say that according to your need, according to the season, whatever vegetables grow that's the body needs. Even we try to buy things which are not in season but they say your body really doesn't need those things. Whatever nature provides for you, those colors are needed. I always admire nature so much. Okay, God is not visible but nature is, right! Even if you don't go out, you still get vegetables at home, you get fruits at home, you look at them, how they grow, how tasty they are, different vegetables have different tastes, it is a wonder.

All of us, as souls, through silence, can create very beautiful things, in our personal lives, in the atmosphere, and also for others. Sometimes we think service is only giving Gyan, but I feel true service is that you are constantly serving through vibrations, through silence, and by being a detached observer. Use the power of silence and increase it, but also see the benefits by using it, listening is not enough. Whatever little you have, use it and when you see the benefits, the motivation increases. When there is motivation, you start doing more and more. Baba is saying that when you are God's child, you are safe from all the obstacles and all the eclipses. Baba said in this morning's Murli that we are the Foundation, our picture is the future of the world, we are Kamdhenus, that means we fulfill desires of everyone from our stage of being free from desires. Service is something which is not given or assigned, yes for courses, but if you are an image, there will always be service. Baba wants to use these portraits, these beautiful pictures, where you are pleasant and you have an image of silence, an image of peace. There are very beautiful feelings you can have, like if I see anyone's sanskar, I just give a lot of vibrations of love or patience, or whichever virtue is required. Then, I feel so good because that is true service, Baba says that my relationship at present, is like parents and children, in Golden Age, it is the emperor and empress with the subjects. Dadi Janki used to always tell us that my thoughts, bodiless stage, is also a relationship, using patience, tolerance, and understanding. We do it here and now. When I use virtues, it really feels like I did something because whatever I am giving, first I'm giving to myself, then to someone else. If I have love for someone, that means I have love in me. That is why Baba keeps saying that we are donors, because only by giving to others can we give to ourselves, otherwise you can't keep sitting and saying, "I love myself, I love myself." When I say, "I love you", the quality of love is also being experienced by me. What I gave to others, that is what is coming to me. Every virtue or power that I am sharing with others, I am actually giving to myself.

Everyone can be a donor, but not everyone understands what donation is? The biggest donation is of virtues and powers. What does Baba give us? Whatever Baba gives me, I give to others. One time Baba said that if you cannot give, it means you are not receiving. So, I receive from Baba, I have it, and that's what I give. If amritvela is good, morning yoga is good, I listen to Murli carefully, and study Murli. I can be a donor the whole day and when I am donating, I am getting a lot of good wishes from others. Then, I am also able to give blessings. That means that whatever I say or think for others becomes a blessing for them. Baba said that you should be so peaceful that anyone who is disturbed should experience peace when they come in front of you. I enjoy making efforts, because every moment, and with every thought, you can transform, elevate, and purify. I also recommend using the power of silence, not only just being silent, what's the use then? What is the benefit? True silence is when you change to positive, through silence is where you are benefiting and finding solutions to everything. I think that just being silent is not necessarily accumulating silence, but the more you use silence, it will increase, and it will feel real. This is a very interesting topic of purification, and becoming the most elevated, through silence. Have the temptation to use silence more, so our Master is pleased! We can have such a beautiful portrait of the self, so that the future of the world is clearly visible.

Om Shanti!
