

Om Shanti!

Om Shanti everyone! Happy Janmashtami! We are celebrating, and we feel it is very important to celebrate, right? It is as if we are celebrating our own first birth today. I was thinking that we are so lost into becoming angels that we don't think of our first birth. The angelic stage is our stage in this world, but we also should think about what our first birth will be, like Krishna or little baby Krishna. Today, in the subtle world, Baba, through drishti, keeps emerging us in our original form. I also want to do that more. I saw how Brahma Baba and Dadi Prakashmani did this. Dadi Prakashmani, in spite of her many responsibilities, was sometimes like a little child. She was very playful, carefree, and also definitely royal and generous of heart. You are probably all aware of her qualities by now. She was also very forgiving. I remember one time, I was in a situation where Dadi kept telling Didi also, we have to forget, we have to forget it. There is no benefit in reminding me of the past but just let go, let go, forget.

Support is not just about power, but I feel we have to become like Baba at the Confluence Age, while doing Baba's task. Whatever we have to do, you always have to remember that Baba will direct your actions. The source of all divine qualities is only One, because Baba is giving knowledge, and the virtue I am inculcating is based on knowledge. Every quality and virtue is from God, and there is a difference between the two. I saw this with Brahma Baba many times. For example, the quality of patience is a good quality, the same as courage, but how are these qualities applied in practice? Patience for what? How does my intellect understand and inculcate, then apply in practice? How does patience become visible as a Godly virtue? So, think more about the source of knowledge, keep inculcating all the Godly virtues. Then, those virtues become divine virtues in the golden age. During the day, we might get lots of good ideas we want to do, but then we say that it is not possible, it doesn't apply. Baba can make things happen within a short time. Baba shows the path and the best methods so we will be able to maintain our values, and our virtues.

I can see that Baba will support and guide at every step, so whatever I do is based on Shrimat, on high principles, and everything is accurate. I don't have to do anything that is not based on principles. I see Baba more as a support in that way. If I always remember that Baba will take care, Baba will guide me, then Baba will make it happen also. Whatever happens, let me remember Baba more, Baba has to make it happen. So, one is that your remembrance is becoming more consistent, and the other is as Baba said this morning, "One can remain carefree and be a trustee." We feel that whatever is right, Baba makes it happen, and we also say it happens according to the Drama. Keep remembering that we have 'One Support'. Always have this thought, and you will see all the qualities Baba talked about in the intellect, to be subtle, to be divine, to be broad, to be unlimited. So, I was looking at a long list of what kind of intellect one should have, but that is only possible when I am in remembrance of Baba and I see how beautifully He does everything for us. It is His task, so He has to guide us. I take the support from One, as He is my guide, and He will guide me on how to accomplish His task.

Om Shanti!
