

Om Shanti

Yes, the flowers look beautiful, right? Beautiful, 80 roses, with such beautiful colors. We want to share all the beautiful flowers that have come for Baba, for Baba's home, and for Baba's family. The whole Avyakti Parivar can enjoy them. Yes, it's called the power of realization. I find it's really a divine gift, if one can have realizations. Realization definitely has a deep connection with purity, or having a clean heart. When your heart is clean, you are not holding anything from the past about yourself or anyone else, that is purity. You instantly realize where I could have been better, not where I was wrong, but that I could have been better, or said something that was more pleasant and brings happiness. With this realization, you are able to transform immediately, and that transformation brings a lot of power. This not only increases the power of purity, but also contentment. You keep progressing and remain very light. There can also be a lack of realization, which is a kind of resistance in accepting that I need to be better. Some take a long time to realize what kind of sanskars make them behave in a particular way, and say things in a particular way. This is very important because with purity, my personality should be good and truthful, but also very sweet and humble.

Every moment in life there could be realizations. These realizations shouldn't be that you sit in a corner and regret something or feel sad, like "I shouldn't have done this, or it shouldn't be like this!" What's the benefit of thinking, "What should I do, what shouldn't I do? I immediately know that if I would have done it this way, this was the better way, and there would have been good results. Do not keep feeling sad, or lack of self-respect, or lack of capacity, no. Keep increasing the power of realization, so that Baba is connecting with the clean heart. Baba is saying that to have a clean heart is not to hold anything. It is a really beautiful gift in life, when I instantly realize and then I change, and if it is a big mistake, I say I'm sorry to whom it had happened. I also go to Baba and express that, yes, I could have done this or I should have been better. Also, when interacting with others, you will be very well respected if you instantly realize and say I will do better, or I could have done this better. You all must be internally realizing what is the power of realization. Some realize and they become sad, and some realize they are joyful, "Okay, let's move forward now, I will do better next time." In this way, we develop self-respect, and self-trust. Baba said that true self recognition also comes. So purity, contentment, and the power of realization, are increasing as your purity is increasing. These qualities will be visible, or you will experience these powers, as your personality of purity is emerging. One of these is the power of self-realization. With Self-realization, as Baba says "I am a pure soul", truth becomes your main virtue. Knowing yourself as a pure soul is self-realization. When there is self-realization, there is improvement and I become perfect, right? So, reflect on this and see if you have the power of realization, or if there is stubbornness or resistance and non-acceptance. Think about it.

Om Shanti!
