

Sister Claude took gyan in 1986, one of the first ones in Marseille. She was then a journalist. Very quickly, she got invested in service, especially in the 'Global Co-operation for a Better World' initiative and was instrumental for creating the contact with the wife of Marseille's Mayor, met on the Marseille Exhibition in 1989.

Very creative, Claude had a lot of love for churning gyan, always able to find practical examples or scientific experiences to give explanations. With her refined and sharp intellect, she loved sharing knowledge with others, with tact and discernment.

Claude always was very attentive and careful towards her children who never came close to her spiritual family and remained independent, lovely and detached. For many in the centre, she was like a mother. Generous and benevolent, she saw everyone, pakka or not, as Baba's child, as part of the family. She found a bridge with souls who had taken some distance over the years, understanding, consoling and comforting them...

Claude has been courageously fighting against cancer for many years. Since 2013, the body has been too weak to allow her to move and come to the centre. After four months in palliative care unit, she flew to Baba on Wednesday...

Souls who have had the joy to share a beautiful spiritual friendship with her love her total absence of judgmental attitude towards others, her acceptance of each one with his/her difference, and her insight of the unique part of each one.

As she herself was saying, she had decided to go along BK path at the highlander's pace. Determined and faithful, Claude was a fearless soul, filled with benevolence. She will be remembered as the stick for the blind, guiding souls towards light with patience and motherly love. Also a good number of souls in Marseille thank her for her care and sustenance through her knowledge of alternative medicine and Qi Gong, which helped them remaining alert in action and Baba's service.

Now that this elevated soul has spread her angelic wings, we wish her a wonderful journey, borne by our gratitude and our love... You had the wish to interview God so may you spend some time with Him now to ask all the questions you wish!
