

"MAGIC TOUCH" SUMMER CAMP FOR CHILDREN AT KOWLOON RAJA YOGA CENTRE IN HONG KONG

Value Education for children has always been in demand, especially in societies where such education is in short supply. Hong Kong is one such society where Value Education is not easily available.

Thus, during the school summer vacation this year, the Kowloon Raja Yoga Centre decided to conduct a children's summer camp with an attractive theme – "Rediscover Your Inner Superpower". Children of age group 6-12 years could participate.

To make the platform bigger, UNESCO Hong Kong's Peace Centre joined in to partner in this summer camp with Raja Yoga Centre.

The other attraction of the camp was the group of guides who were from diverse backgrounds. There were also local guides who are popular in Hong Kong such as Harry Wong, the magician and TV host and Ayako Ichimaru, a well-known violinist. Added to this, we had highly experienced Raja Yoga practitioners and teachers as guides for Value sessions. To publicize the camp, a preview video was created with local popular figures.

The camp was divided into two age groups – 6-8 years and 9-12 years, with sessions held on two different days of the week. Apart from value sessions, children involved in interesting activities such as learning magic, playing music, artwork and group singing.

On the final day of the camp, parents of participating children were invited to view presentations and performances by children. At the completion of the summer camp, certificates were awarded to children.
