

Stall in hospital grounds, Sydney, Australia

Over two weekends in Sep 2013 BKs joined the Wistaria festival in western Sydney with a stall, giving out pamphlets and selling literature.

The festival is held in the beautiful garden grounds of Cumberland Hospital. It is an annual fundraising event for the hospital with an art exhibition, entertainment, stalls and activities. Sunny days and flowers in bloom added to the beauty and relaxed atmosphere of the event. Festival organisers found out by chance that the popular gardens are 101 years old and belatedly planted a new wistaria to commemorate their centenary year.

BKs have been holding a stall at the festival for 10 years, driven by the enthusiasm of Sr Damyanti. She works as a nurse in a nearby hospital where she has also organised a few talks for visiting BK speakers such as Dr Roger Cole and Didi Dr Nirmala.

23 September 2013