

Yogis in the Castle

Many of you will remember the beautiful photos of yogis in the Exhibition SOULS the Danish Søren Solkær has taken in Madhuban. Our yogis have given drishti in exhibitions and programs all over the world. Not to mention the beautiful coffee table book with 100 yogis that was printed in recent years.

Our yogis have now been revived in Denmark in the famous Renaissance Castle of Frederiksborg. Together with kings, queens, nobles and the bourgeois the yogis are now giving drishti to the visitors in the portrait exhibition at the National History Museum. The yogis are part of a retrospective exhibition with over 200 photos and portraits of many prominent people, that Søren has photographed over the last 25 years.

The BK's in Copenhagen were invited to the vernissage. It was a surprise to us that 14 of the Yogi portraits was part of the exhibition itself! They got their own room in the princess chamber and will give drishti to the visitors until 15th April 2018. Madhuban and Raja Yoga meditation is mentioned in the description.

In the last picture you can see Søren giving the introduction to his work to the press and invited guests in the golden decorated renaissance hall. You can also visit the yogis online here: <http://sorensolkaer.com/photographs/souls>
