

Grenada

On Thursday January 29, 2015 at 6:45 am Brahma Kumar Ramparkash Singal arrived in Grenada . A very tiny island with a population of almost 100,000, very well known throughout the world as “the isle of spice.” We consider ourselves very fortunate that a yogi of over forty-one years has placed his footsteps here.

His first interview at 9:00am was with (MTV) Meaningful Television. He was told only five minutes but the interviewer went on and on with her questions so he spoke for about forty-five minutes.

By 10:00 am his second interview was with the main national radio station, he was told only fifteen minutes. The interviewer asked him question after question, he spoke for almost one hour. The rest of Thursday was spent meeting people individually. He also met with the founder of (GARP) Grenada Association of Retired Persons, Carol Vasquez. She responded very positively and promised to enlighten every member of her organization with this international project. She said a project of this nature will have a domino effect not only here on this tiny island but throughout the entire world, as everyone is looking for their goodness. She said this project will help them to look inside and not out.

Friday January 30 began with a courtesy call on the Prime Minister of Grenada, Carriacou and Petite Martinique at 7:15 am. The Right Honorable Dr. Keith Mitchell welcomed Ramparkashbhai and commended him for making him and this nation aware of such a meaningful and most needed project not only here in Grenada but all over our troubled world.

Rambhai also met with advisor to the Minister of Health, Mrs. Ann David-Antione, Sen. the Hon. Brenda Hood, Minister of Culture & Heritage and several other dignitaries without appointments. This was possible because the Prime Minister’s Office and all Ministries are housed in one building known as “The Ministerial Complex.”

Rambhai thinks that Grenada is such a beautiful island. He was told by (GIS) Government Information Service, the government television that his stay was too short and he must come again. He happily flew off to Barbados his next place of service.
